Paint Made from Mummies

Even mummies have their uses, especially those of between 2,500 and 3,000 years of age, for one of the richest and finest of brown paints is manufactured from them.

The paint is made by "grinding the bones" of the mummies with the bitumen with which they were embalmed. Each mummy, when ground up, makes sufficient paint to last the trade about five years. Besides its wonderful rich color, it has the advantage of being practically permanent, and for this reason it is in great demand amongst the artists, especially portrait painters whose subjects have brown hair.

Fortunately the supply of suitable mummies is getting scarce, for it is only those of between 2,000 to 3,000 years of age that will produce the beautiful brown paint so loved by artists, it was during that period that the art of embalming was at the best.

After the embalming process had been carried out, the body was coated with bitumen and subjected to a slight heat. It is this warmth in combination with the great age of the bitumen that has produced the wonderful brown that makes the paint produced from it the finest in the world.

Curious History Of The Names Of Our Coins

Two Bits, Dollar, Peices of Eight etc.

Newcomers to this part of the country are often puzzled at the expression "Two Bits" and "Six Bits" without realizing how very much interest is connected with the terms.

Three hundred years ago when the Central Atlantic Ocean was known as the Spanish Main because of the sea power of Spain, the influence of that country was predominant in the regions of the West Indies, and their little silver coin called a "Real" was what was most commonly used. At that period the Hollanders were the great navigators and in their trade with the Spanish-American countries they used a large silver piece called a "Joachimsthaler" from the valley or "Thaler" of Joachim in Bohemia, from which the silver was mined. These "Thalers" were exactly equivalent to Eight of the Spanish "Reals," so the English sailors who were not familiar with either the word "Real or Thaler" used to call the large coins "Pieces of Eight," which is so associated with Robinson Crusoe and the buccaneers of the Spanish Main. The thick tongues of the Hollanders pronounced the word "Thaler" as though it were spelled "Dollar" and that is the way we spell it now.

Our "Dollar Mark" is undoubtedly the figure Eight with a Line drawn through it to cancel it just as the first letter of the word "Cent," with a cancellation line is the symbol for cent. In those days people wrote with a quill pen, and the figure Eight was made with two strokes, the first similar to a letter "S" and the second connecting the two ends. It is instructive to split a quill toothpick and see by actual experiment how the present "Dollar Mark" was evolved. To prevent confusing it with an ordinary number it was written a little above the line until the invention of the typewriter and the linotype machine which has altered the form as to obscure its origin.

The Spanish "Eight Real Piece" was called a Dollar during the time of the American Revolution, and the Spanish "Eight Real Dollar" was adopted as the standard by the United States, only it was divided into tenths and hundredths instead of into eights as formerly.

When American miners went to California they did not carry much small change, so used the Spanish "Real" which they found in use there, they contemptuously called these little silver pieces "Bits" and so in the west we have the expression, "Two Bits" "Four Bits" etc.

How many people stop to think that the expression "Red Cent" referred to the period before the Civil War when the "Coppers" were made of copper and were reddish in color and large. The first small sized cents were white and made of nickel, but are now made of bronze. How many people have seen the first issue of the 1909 cent with the initials of the designer, V.B.D. or know that the older style is not an Indian head, but little Sarah Keen, daughter of the designer, with a Sioux Indian head dress to represent an "American Liberty Cap." This was first used on the white cent in place of the flying eagle.

The older subscribers of this paper will remember the little silver half Dimes and the tiny Three-cent pieces, as well as the bronze Two-cent pieces, and the nickel Three-cents and also the "Token" similar to the cent which were authorized during the Civil War, it is well to preserve any of these as interesting curiosities. The "Half Cent" used to be in common use but is now seldom seen as well as the little silver "20 cent" and also the "One Dollar" and the "Three Dollar" gold pieces.

Sometimes we still hear the term "Penny," although there have been none in this country since the time of Washington, and the term "Shilling" is still sometimes used, as well as "Levy." The Spanish coin "Peyuño" used in New Orleans was half the value of a "Real" or "Bit" six and a quarter cents, it is still remembered in the expression "Not worth a 'Peyuño' in the same way as the old paper money issued by the Continental Congress during the Revolutionary War "Not worth a Continental."

During the Civil War paper money was issued in place of small coins and were known as "Shin Plasters." Since the writer has been in the west, instances have occurred of dishonest persons passing Confederate Money on unsuspecting people.

The Indians in the eastern part of America used beads made of Sea Shells in the place of money, and called "Wampum" while in this part of the country they used a little sea shell called a "Tusk-shell" from its shape which is still found in Indian graves.

That Elusive Little Mill

It is surprising that no jokes are current about the size and color of the "Mill" of which we hear so often whenever taxes are mentioned. People talk of them as they do of "Dimes and Dollars," but none has ever been coined, so that the most remarkable of all coins is the one that is Not and Never has been

Taxes, Taxes, little Mill,
Taxes, Mill and Taxes still
Mill and Taxes till I die,

Damaging Recoil of the Drought Area Relief Act Fire Protection Declined By Some Fire Companies

This week we have been informed, that some Fire Insurance Companies decline to accept business "in the Area covered by the Drought Area Relief Act"

From this it can be judged that some "Capitalists" are Nervous about doing Business in this Area.

So we get some Protection from the "Drought Area Relief Act" but on the other hand some "Capitalists" decline to accept the responsibility of Protecting us.

This shows we cannot have everything just as we wish.

LAUSANNE, Feb. 7.—All mediation has finally failed. Turkey will not sign the allied treaty at the present time, even with the latest concessions proposed and within a few hours Ismet Pasha will leave for Angora to consult with his government.

So far as its object was to conclude a speedy peace the Near East conference has failed.

Lausanne, Feb. 7th. Ismet Pasha and the principal members of the Turkish conference delegation left Lausanne for Angora at seven o'clock this morning.

Railway News

Money law—One hundred new cars for the Canadian Pacific Railway have been ordered by the Canadian Pacific Railway. The cars will be delivered by the end of the year. That will give you an idea of the way the line is being taken out of the country. Said Mr. Chas. McPherson, general manager of Western Lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

He expressed himself very well pleased with the movement of the crop throughout the whole West. When asked as to the possibility of a grain blockade, Mr. McPherson stated that the Canadian Pacific was accepting all grain that was being offered. He pointed out that on one day four million bushels of grain had been taken out of Fort William and Port Arthur. Mr. Murphy pointed out that there was a difficulty in getting bottom on the lake to take the grain out, but that was being far from being full, and the Canadian Pacific will have the big Transcona elevator empty.

Already Mr. Murphy said there was a large quantity of grain being shipped out from the head of the lake by the rail road. He declared that he could see no grain laid in sight.

Mr. Murphy pointed out that the Canadian Pacific had moved 14,000 cars off the Saskatchewan division of the railway. This was five thousand more cars of Saskatchewan wheat than had been moved in the same period in any previous year.

He also pointed out that even with the unprecedented grain movement from the Canadian Pacific was moving from 250 to 275 carloads per day from the Western division. There was thirteen thousand tons of wheat shipped last Saturday. There were three weeks or a month ago, and at that time I stated we were moving 250 to 275 cars of coal a day, and the movement has been kept at that ever since. He declared that the wheat can be moved at the rate that can be moved, and that there is no coal that will be great suffering in the country, and possibly worse.

Old Councillors not Likely to be Opposed

GRANBY LAKE, Feb. 7.—The municipality of Grunby No. 10, held their monthly meeting in Purple Springs last Monday and all councillors were present. Some discussion came up over the matter of moving the municipal office to Purple Springs, but the major part of the district would be in favour of it for many reasons.

The actual meeting will take place on Saturday Feb. 10th, when nominations will be in order for three council seats. The retiring councillors are: Mr. T. Martin, E. S. Pinnock and Ed. Goshen. It is thought that all three will be asked to stand for reelection and if winning to do so will most likely be elected by acclamation, thereby saving the expense of an election. It is hoped everyone who can will be there and bear the duties of financial statement and annual report and incidentally listen to any little difference of opinion regarding the affairs of our municipality.

The play is too good to be missed.

Appeals For Peace

DUBLIN, Feb. 8.—The report of the convention of "Republican army members" says that Diarmid O'Hegarty, who was secretary of the Irish provisional government spoke to the delegates as follows:

"The sorrows which have befallen our country make it the duty of everyone to do what is possible to end the national tragedy. For more than seven months Ireland has been enduring an agony more bitter than any in her checked history. Brother is in arms against brother and father is the jailer of his son. Many of the best and most fearless of our comrades have fallen in the struggle. Brugha, Collins, Boland, Hales, and Mellows are in their graves. Can we allow the conflict to continue until every name that inspired us with hope and our enemies with fear during the struggle with England becomes but an inscription on a tombstone?"

"If we continue much longer on the road we have travelled for the last seven months, we shall not have a country but a wilderness."

Laugh and Grow Fat

A Negro employed at one of the movie studios in Los Angeles, was drafted by a director to do a novel comedy scene with a lion.

"You get into this," ordered the director, "and we'll bring the lion in and put him in bed with you. It will be a screen."

"Put a lion in bed with me?" yelled the Negro. No said Not a-lit! I quits right here and now."

"But," protested the director, "this lion won't hurt you. This lion was brought up on milk."

"So was I brought up on milk," yelled the negro, "but I eat meat now."

They arrived home late from the party. The curly took off her hat and slammed it down. Then she confronted her husband.

"I'll never take you to another party as long as I live!" she said.

"Why?" he calmly wanted to know. "You asked Mrs. Jones how her husband was standing the heat."

"Well?"

"Well, her husband has been dead two months."

Unrewarded Heroism

I've been thinking, sadly thinking,
Of the great war and what it brought,
Of the men who faced the enemy
And how nobly they fought.

In a hall of humming bullets
And burst and screech of shell,
With gas and other tortures
They faced a roaring hell.

They did their duty bravely,
No matter where it led,
Past rows of wounded comrades
And tangled forms of the dead.

Staggering, cold and weary,
For lack of proper rest,
Onward ever onward,
Our noble Forces pressed.

For loved one home and country,
And true ideals of their own,
They fought and won the greatest war.
The world has ever known.

We met the returning heroes
With inflated flags and cheers,
And for those remaining over there
We shed a few bitter tears.

The great deed lifted like a cloud,
"We're free again, we cried
But O! How soon we have forgot
The men who fought and died.

We thought when the war had ended
A new area would be ushered in,
Free from gross injustice
And the profiteering sin.

That the bond of brotherhood engendered
And fostered by the war
Would lead us on to better things,
Like a bright and guiding star.

No improvement has yet been effected
By the sacrifice that was made
When the wheels of industry are silent
The hope of democracy doth fade.

Were brave men slain in battle
Like boats without a crew?
The thought of wholesale slaughter
Should cause us all to pause.

And ask if the present depression
Is the reward of pain and grief,
Or if a new era looms nearer,
Wonderful beyond belief.

Great Changes are slow in coming,
But once started, never cease
Merciless in its onward steps,
Reform means war or peace.

Let's hope for the best, my brother,
And pray that the dream come true,
When we'll live by rule of the majority
Uncontrolled by the powerful few.

Calmly, with unfaltering courage,
In workshop and in school,
Let's strive to cure the world's ills
With the balm of "The Golden Rule."

HERE AND THERE

Here and There

Port William—E. G. Noble, first aid instructor on the Canadian Pacific railway, who for the past seven years has been instructor on the eastern divisions, is in the city preparing to take charge of the whole of the western divisions, and to Port William to Vancouver, and to organize first aid classes among the employees of the railway company and instruct them in the emergency treatment of accidents.

St. John, N.B.—The Canadian Pacific Railway has to Jan. 6th shipped more than two million bushels of grain more than during the corresponding period last year. This season's shipments have already totaled 4,897,154 bushels compared with 2,658,582 bushels on the same date last season. The outlook is for a continued heavy movement.

St. John, N.B.—Figures compiled at C. P. R. headquarters show that the port of St. John has handled very much more freight to January 15th this season, as compared with the corresponding period of last year.

Exports totalled 260,472 tons, as compared with 146,592 tons for the same period last year. The increase is due to the winter port business. Last year during the same period 146,592 tons passed through St. John; showing an increase of 114,070 to this year. Last year's import business during the same period totalled 27,692, while this year 28,632 tons of import freight have been recorded, an increase of 1,140 for the present winter port season. The total increase in both export and import business for the port's business to date shows 115,219 tons over that handled during the same period a year ago.

London, Ont.—This year the Canadian Pacific Railway has arranged to hold weekly first aid classes at London throughout the winter. The instruction will be furnished by the employees themselves, many of whom have become very proficient in first aid work. By this means those employees who have had previous instruction can drop into the classes from time to time and refresh themselves on the instruction, while the new employees, especially the train and engine service, whose duties may require them to be absent from the classes one week, will have the opportunity of taking the instruction later on as the classes will continue throughout the year. E. T. Wright, C. P. R. stockholder at London, is chairman in charge of the committee, which is looking after the formation of first aid classes on the London division.

Montreal—Judge Choquet's warning issued some time ago threatening to fine the parents of boys causing damages in any part of the city was put into effect when he condemned fifteen mothers of arrested lads to pay $175 each for the cost of their offspring. For some time there has been daily reports from the C. P. R. of destruction to cars and fixtures by youngsters who run wild through the yards and use the cars for playing hide and seek. The most serious accusations were laid against boys who were caught throwing stones at passing trains, endangering the lives of travellers. Judge Choquet gave a warning that he would hold the parents responsible for the acts of vandalism by children. When he had fifteen cases prepared for court, he carried out his warning by making the parents pay the costs of the damages incurred.

St. John, N.B.—Five members of the Baseball Writers' Association of the United States arrived in St. John from Montreal. They were Fred Lieb of the New York Evening Telegram, who is president of the Writers' Association, and Sid Marcus of the New York Evening Journal, Irvin Vandenauk of the Chicago Tribune, Denman Thompson of the Washington Star, and Ed Ballinger of the Pittsburg Post. They left on the S.S. Anamora for Digby, en route to the Keganook district where they will hunt big game. The party are the guests of the C.P.R. The trip was arranged by Joe Page, baseball writer and sport enthusiast, who is a special representative of the C.P.R. He met the majority of the writers in New York and accompanied them to Montreal Quebec and as far as this city. The visitors were met at the station by G. Bruce Burpee, district passenger agent of the C.P.R., and C. B. Allan, secretary of the New Brunswick Tourist and Resources Association, and driven to the Royal Hotel.
